He declined to discuss the outcome of his libel suit against Editor George A. Newett of the Iron Ore of Ishpeming, Mich. "The verdict speaks for itself," was his only comment.

Members of the Roosevelt party said the climax of the case came like the conclusion of a powerful drama. When Editor Newett took the stand and admitted he was mistaken in charging Roosevelt with drunkenness and that all his evidence was hearsay, Judge Flannigan, who presided, immediately instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which it did without leaving the box. Homer L. Recob Faces Term in State Prison

Charged With Trying to Pass Check for $225. Bearing Forged Signature of His Grandfather-Has Been in Hiding Nine Weeks, but "Never Fail" Sleuths Track Him Down and a Bad Record.

Chief McCoy and Deputy Sheriff A. C. Nelson drove out to the Chaffin school house neighborhood on the Jamestown pike Saturday evening and arrested Homer Lee Recob, aged 22, on a charge of forgery, and soon had him safely behind the bars of the county jail, with a term in the penitentiary staring him in the face.

Young Recob's offense is alleged to have been committed on the 24th day of March, when he is said to have presented a check for $225 at the Washington Savings bank, bearing the signature of his grandfather. A. J. Yeoman, and made payable to Harry O. Neal.

sisting On Disinterestedness

Right now when it seemed that about everything possible! the way of investigations had been tried out there is one more right here which gives promise of being fully as interest ing and fully as productive of good results as any other one the many which have gone before.

The investigation which promises to step forward now to the center of the stage is that one which has for its purpose the ascertainment of the affiliation of our national legislators with usiness interests demanding protection in the tariff schedules the new tariff bill.

For the present the investigation will be confined to the pper house of Congress. It grows out of President Wilson's ssertion that a powerful lobby is exerting an influence on legslators to maintain certain items of the present tariff schedules n the new bill.

For a long time many people have feared that some of our oational legislators were not as free from all connection with hose business interests which profit by special legislation as they should be in order to render proper service to all the people.

This investigation promises to disclose the business affiliation of every law maker.

Every legislator should be qualified to act impartially in part of his head over a jagged hole these vital matters of legislation, just as a judge must be qualified by lack of interest or predjudice to sit in judgment on a suit at law.

While there is no provision for disqualifying a legislator affiliated with interests demanding special legislation, the publie service will be much bettered by the fact of that association being made public. It is the hidden associations which always are detrimental. In the bright light of publicity these influences, if any exist, will lose much of their power of evil.

The SAD RESULTS LIKELY TO FOLLOW IN OUR OWN COUNTRY from an active participation in political strife are foreshadowed by the scenes which are daily occurring in England. Under the influence of such teachers we find woman, especially in ligher circles. NEGLECTING HER HOUSEHOLD DUTIES.

Well Behaved Players.

The Washington Star, with justifiable pride, remarks: "When it comes to having a well behaved lot of players Griffith is perhaps more fortunate than any of his rival managers. There is not a dissipater on the team; rules are never violated and the entire bunch of players is well behaved and perhaps well contented. It is not necessary for a watch to be placed on any of them, as is often done by ball clubs. Griffith has imposed certain rules which are observed without a murmur and he places every confidence in his men by putting them on their honor, which is never violated."

The signing of Doyle leaves only a few of the old-timers in the shadow surrounding the baseball spotlight. Perhaps it can be said that Walter Stevenson Brodie, Duke of Roanoke, among the best center fielders who ever played the game, is about the only one of the old favorites who is not enjoying prosperity as a direct result of work in organized baseball. City Charter For Washington?

The Federal Plan

The federal plan of municipal government is so named because it is patterned after the plan of the national government. It is the oldest of the modern forms of municipal government. The present form of municipal government in Ohio is sometimes referred to as the federal plan, but this is not correct. The present form of municipal government in Ohio is a hybrid. It combines features of the federal and of the old board plan, and has characteristics which belong to neither.

In the federal plan, there are two departments of the city government to which officers are elected, the executive and the legislative. The head of the executive department is the mayor. He and the vice mayor are the only officers elected in his department. The treasurer, auditor, solicitor, and similar officers, are usually appointed by the mayor, and his appointments must be approved by the legislative department.

The legislative department is composed of what is known as the council. In cities having the pure federal plan, the municipality is divided geographically into wards and a councilman is elected from each ward. The function of the legislative department is purely that of enacting laws, while that of the executive department is that of carrying out the legislation of council. The check which council has upon the appointments of the mayor is duplicated by the power of the mayor to veto legislation by council, with this difference, that council may pass legislation over the veto of the mayor.

In a number of American municipalities, the federal plan has been replaced by the commission plan. That plan will be

Hile the rest of us will be sweltering at home Donald B MacMillan and his party will be pushing on toward their goal in the frozen top of the world. They're going north to find Crocker Land, the unexplored arctic continent, which may be inhabited by blond Eskimos, but more likely is the home of the walrus and the polar bear. MacMillan, who was with Peary when he discovered the north pole, has chartered the whaler Diana and will sail north in the early part of July from Sydney, N. S. W Wireless will play an important part in MacMillan's trip. Electricity will be used for cooking and heating. The expedition will in other ways be equipped with the very latest arctic paraphernalia. Crocker Land was sighted by Pears from Cape Hubbard in 1906 and has since remained the principal upsolved geographical puzzle of the world.

Members of the Roosevelt party said the climax of the case came like the conclusion of a powerful drama. When Editor Newett took the stand and admitted he was mistaken in charging Roosevelt with drunkenness and that all his evidence was hearsay, Judge Flannigan, who presided, immediately instructed the jury to bring in a verdict for the plaintiff, which it did without leaving the box. Roosevelt himself requested that he be awarded only nominal damages. which was done. He was awarded the nominal damages of 6 cents, provided in such cases by the laws of Michigan. Right now when it seemed that about everything possible in the way of investigations had been tried out there is one more right here which gives promise of being fully as interesting and fully as productive of good results as any other one the many which have gone before.

The investigation which promises to step forward now to the center of the stage is that one which has for its purpose the ascertainment of the affiliation of our national legislators with usiness interests demanding protection in the tariff schedules the new tariff bill.

For the present the investigation will be confined to the pper house of Congress. It grows out of President Wilson's ssertion that a powerful lobby is exerting an influence on legslators to maintain certain items of the present tariff schedules

n the new bill. For a long time many people have feared that some of our cational legislators were not as free from all connection with DOLLAR PATCHES HIS SKULL. hose business interests which profit by special legislation as they should be in order to render proper service to all the

This investigation promises to disclose the business affiliation of every law-maker.

Every legislator should be qualified to act impartially in part of his head over a jagged hole these vital matters of legislation, just as a judge must be qualified by lack of interest or predjudice to sit in judgment on a suit at law.

While there is no provision for disqualifying a legislator! affiliated with interests demanding special legislation, the publishing at once to cover the opening lie service will be much bettered by the fact of that association being made public. It is the hidden associations which always are detrimental. In the bright light of publicity these influences, if any exist, will lose much of their power of evil.

Well Behaved Players.

The Washington Star, with justifiable pride, remarks: "When it comes to having a well behaved lot of players Griffith is perhaps more fortunate than any of his rival managers. There is not a dissipater on the team; rules are never violated and the entire bunch of players is well behaved and perhaps well contented. It is not necessary for a watch to be placed on any of them, as is often done by ball clubs. Griffith has imposed certain rules which are observed without a murmur and he places every confidence in his men by putting them on their honor, which is never violated."

If The People of This City Desire to Avail Themselves of the New Form of Government, Here Is One of the Methods of City Government That May Be Adopted.

The Federal Plan

The federal plan of municipal government is so named be cause it is patterned after the plan of the national government. It is the oldest of the modern forms of municipal government. The present form of municipal government in Ohio is sometimes referred to as the federal plan, but this is not correct. The present form of municipal government in Ohio is a hybrid. It combines features of the federal and of the old board plan, and has characteristics which belong to neither.

In the federal plan, there are two departments of the city government to which officers are elected, the executive and the legislative. The head of the executive department is the mayor. He and the vice mayor are the only officers elected in his department. The treasurer, auditor, solicitor, and similar officers, are usually appointed by the mayor, and his appointments must be approved by the legislative department.

The legislative department is composed of what is known as the council. In cities having the pure federal plan, the municipality is divided geographically into wards and a councilman is elected from each ward. The function of the legislative department is purely that of enacting laws, while that of the executive department is that of carrying out the legislation of council. The check which council has upon the appointments of the mayor is duplicated by the power of the mayor to veto legislation by council, with this difference, that council may pass legislation over the veto of the mayor.

In a number of American municipalities, the federal plan has been replaced by the commission plan. That plan will be discussed tomorrow evening

Arctic's Unknown Continent

Hile the rest of us will be sweltering at home Donald B MacMillan and his party will be pushing on toward their goal in the frozen top of the world. They're going north to find Crocker Land, the unexplored arctic continent, which may be inhabited by blond Eskimos, but more likely is the home of the walrus and the polar bear. MacMillan, who was with Peary when he discovered the north pole, has chartered the whaler Diana and will sail north in the early part of July from Sydney, N. S. W. Wireless will play an important part in MacMillan's trip. Electricity will be used for cooking and heating. The expedition will in other ways be equipped with the very latest arctic paraphernalia. Crocker Land was sighted by Pears from Cape Hubbard in 1906 and has since remained the principal upsolved geographical puzzle of the world.
